In point of quality it easily retains its position at the head of the column, all of which is no disparagement to other similar enterprises of a worthy nature. The management was perfect, and the big crowd was handled without trouble. There was only one untoward incident and that was by a couple of men in the menagerie tent who came to see the sights and made it necessary for an officer to call them out. ### CIRCUS WAS TOO SLOW

So These Men Started a Side Show of Their Own.

There was an unfortunate incident in the menagerie tent of the circus yesterday that landed two men in jail, though they can blame no one but themselves. Later they were released on bond. There were several men composing a party that went to the show, two of them being visitors from the north, named Nichols and Lee. They were all having fun but were inclined to be boisterous when they entered. Policeman Moore cautioned them that they should be more careful of their language though there was no objection to their having all the fun they wanted.

Later Nichols and Lee were seen in the animal tent, continuing their boisterous conduct. Nichols stuck his hand into a cage, in violation of the rules, posted in front. A keeper yelled at him to pull his hand out quickly. At that he turned and abused the keeper addressing him in language improper for anybody to use under any circumstances, notwithstanding there was a large crowd of visitors around him. At that the officer approached and told him to be more circumspect when he turned and repeated his remarks addressing them to the officer. It finally became necessary for the officer to tell him he was under arrest and he would have to take him away. "Not while I'm with him," said Lee, who otherwise had made no disturbance, but who immediately approached to interfere with the officer who was already outclassed by Nichols in point of size.

But when Lee came up to get a rap over the head with a six shooter that made him withdraw from the hostilities, though he was immediately placed under arrest. At the same time it is charged that Nichols was getting out a big pocket knife for the purpose of cutting his way clear. It was noticed by one of the showmen who told the officer to look out for it and naturally he did so.

The officer finally got his men to the street car but they were still noisy and blasphemous and he called upon Dr. O. Richmond and John Reiber to help him. The car was slow in starting and the men were disturbing things generally so they were placed in a hack and brought to the city jail, bail being secured for them later.

FOUND RIGHT PATH After a False Start.

"In 1896 I began to drink coffee. At that time I was healthy and enjoyed life. At first I noticed no bad effects from the indulgence but in course of time found that various troubles were coming upon me.

"Pulsation of the heart took upon itself sick and nervous headaches, kidney troubles followed and eventually my stomach became so deranged that even a light meal caused me serious distress.

"Our physician's prescriptions failed to help me, and then I called upon Dr. J. O. Richmond and John Reiber to help me. The car was slow in starting and the men were disturbing things generally so they were placed in a hack and brought to the city jail, bail being secured for them later.

"Finally I began to suspect that coffee was the cause of my troubles. I experimented by leaving it off, except for one small cup at breakfast. This helped some, but did not altogether relieve my distress. It satisfied me, however, that I was on the right track.

"So I gave up the old kind of coffee altogether and began to use Postum Food Coffee. In 10 days I found myself greatly improved, my nerves steady, my head clear, my kidneys working better and better, my heart's action rapidly improving, my appetite improved and the ability to eat a hearty meal without subsequent suffering restored to me. This condition remains.

"Leaving off coffee and using Postum did this, with no help at all, as I abandoned the use of medicines when I began to use the food coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ALL THAT IT COULD BE

Big Show Pleased the People; People Pleased the Management.

"Wouldn't that jar you?" as the funny paper says.

There was a man in Phoenix yesterday who said he couldn't find the circus grounds, but there was only one such, and he spoke early in the day, so he had another try for his money in the evening—he had any money left. But there was somewhere in the neighborhood of ten thousand people present at the afternoon performance, and the crowd was very large at night. Though that aggregates more than the population of Phoenix, the figures do not lie, for the population of Phoenix yesterday included mighty delegations from all populous centers in central Arizona. Beside there were many Phoenix people who exercised the blessed American privilege of attending both performances, and the ticket sellers had been specially instructed not to turn away any good money that might be offered.

And the show made good in every sense of the word. It was the same Barnum & Bailey amusement aggregation that has won fame the world over, and was easily the largest and best ever seen in the southwest. It was the largest tent ever pitched in Phoenix, and it was also the best filled tent. The tent is supposed to hold in the neighborhood of fifteen thousand people, and though there were perhaps a few empty seats, the tent looked crowded. But there is more than size to recommend the circus. In point of quality it easily retains its position at the head of the column, all of which is no disparagement to other similar enterprises of a worthy nature. The management was perfect, and the big crowd was handled without trouble. There was only one untoward incident and that was by a couple of men in the menagerie tent who came to see the sights and made it necessary for an officer to call them out. An incident the show people had nothing to do with.

At the evening performance there was a mix-up in a hurdle race and the tally-ho turned over. There was a consequent spilling of performers, but no one was seriously hurt.

In the main the nature of every circus performance is similar. But it is no idle complaint to say that yesterday's performance excelled in good things. There was more of the marvelous, more of the half-raising, more of the graceful and accomplished and also more of the humorous. Only a few years ago it was considered almost an impossibility for a rider to run and jump on a horse, alighting on his feet, and there were but a few of the best riders who could accomplish this feat. Yesterday, in one act, eight persons did this little trick, and during the performance there was probably a score of men and women who did it at one time or another. In one instance there were two men and two women on the same horse, and they all mounted in that manner. It is suspected that one of these accomplished ladies could even get off a street car without turning backward, and that for a woman, is the supreme feat.

In the dancing and time stepping accomplishments of the educated horses there could be no more perfect work, and the hippodrome races at the conclusion were wild and inspiring, showing to the cleverness of the riders and drivers and the real earnestness of the horses that participated.

The performance opened, of course, with the big spectacular event, the Durbar at Delhi. It was all that was advertised and was a very impressive ceremony. Though many of the Hindus, East Indians and others who, for the moment, occupied positions of dignity and importance, wore stage beards and faces as solemn as though they were really in earnest, both were entirely suitable to the occasion, and one was heard to remark that he did not believe the real Durbar could hold a candle to it. The moral is that the Barnum & Bailey circus makes Oriental splendor ashamed of itself.

The tumbling and athletic work was incomparable, and there were men, women and children who could jump all kinds of somersaults, front, back and sideways, and seemingly as many of them as they wanted to, while the acrobats could climb up on top of each other to the height of four persons, and jump down again via the somersault route.

The aerialists were easily the best seen here, and no doubt the best in the world. With innumerable flying leaps and plunges from the top of the canvas to the net below the visitors were sometimes at a loss to know whether an act was intentional or an accident, but they soon found out when nobody appeared to be hurt.

The performances of the acrobats, the aerialists and the marvelous feats of horsemanship were delightfully alternating all through the exhibition, so that one was never permitted to tire of any particular sort of thrilling exhibition. Variety and the ever-moving kaleidoscope change, is the secret of the Barnum & Bailey performances, so that two hours of wonderment pass more quickly than fifteen minutes in a barber chair.

These three lines of amusement form the basis of the performance, but there is interspersed a dazzling array of specialties and feature events. Many of them form a large part of the activity of a small army of clowns, presenting all sorts of people, and some who represent nothing but themselves. But that, perhaps, is sufficient, for the average clown is strong on individuality.

Some of the most wonderful and ridiculous incidents of the show are the rooster trained to pull a cart, two other roosters who are trained superbly to crow when told to, and a lot of other things, and a cat who, as the rider of a mighty clever dog who does a sawdust stunt, beats anything yet produced in cat training, which many believe is an impossible thing. And one gay old sport of a clown is evidently a gun club crane for he carries a shot gun and has two big geese trained to follow him.

In the special features there are wonderful exhibitions of tight wire work, bicycle riding on the high wire and other things to show off the accomplishments of the equilibrist. Leaping the gap has been seen here before, but never more successfully and never so large a gap. The greatest and most startling feature, however, is the "Dip of death" by Mile. de Tiers in her automobile. This act is the most expensive one in the world for the length of

Its duration, and is presented as advertised, every detail being faithfully carried out.

But that applies to the whole show, even to the menagerie, which is the biggest and best ever seen in the southwest, though no special mention has been made of its features, of which the big herds of elephants and camels are only the "advance agents."

Altogether the management feels that its visit to Phoenix has been a success, both in point of patronage and the appreciation of the people, and Phoenix can now say that it is on the map for the biggest and best attractions under canvas.

THE OSBORN DISTRICT

The Question of Its Disintegration Come Up Today.

The question of the division of the Osborn school district, or rather the segregation of some of the residents of the district from it and their annexation to the Phoenix school district will come before the board of supervisors today. A petition for this purpose was presented to the board more than a month ago and it was met by a remonstrance from a large number of residents of the district who do not live on the Phoenix side of it. They contended in the first place that under the law the supervisors have no power to divide the district in this manner; that they can make two districts of it or that they can combine two districts into one, but that they cannot take a part of a district from it and annex to another district.

Another objection was that the district has a bonded indebtedness which in the event that it should be refunded after the segregation of the part of the district as prayed for by the petitioners would not be upon that part of it at all but would rest the more heavily on the remaining part of the district.

Another matter which will come before the board today will be the question of grading the road out of Mesa toward the Tonto damsite.

The meeting of the board yesterday was devoted wholly to routine, the auditing of bills, the counting of the cash in the treasury and the reception of the report of the county recorder.

The receipts of that office for the month just closed amounted to a little more than $1,000, a slight falling off as compared with earlier months. But $1,000, gives the county a profit of nearly $400 in this office.

BARNUM AND BAILEY'S COM- MENDATION.

There is one firm in the city that prizes very highly a letter of appreciation received yesterday from Barnum and Bailey, an organization which has traveled over the whole world. The Arizona Laundry Co. yesterday lauded over a thousand pieces of company linen besides all the personal laundry of the employees of the show and the following letter from the steward of the show follows:

"Gentlemen: I wish to express my appreciation of the promptness in handling the laundry for our show yesterday and the general satisfaction expressed over the fine work done. It is especially a pleasure for me to do this, since I was led to expect something entirely different while in Arizona. I do not know what your equipment or your system is, but from the unfortunate experience we have had in many larger cities, I believe that many laundries could profit from your knowledge. Respectfully,

"E. S. SHAEFFER,
Steward Barnum & Bailey's show."

Mr. and Mrs. Cravens will return a Phoenix the 27th of September, and will open their School of Music October 2nd, at 240 West Jefferson St.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This is, unquestionably, the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, and it is now the recognized standard over a large part of the civilized world.

A few doses of it will invariably cure an ordinary attack of diarrhoea.

It has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery with perfect success.

It can always be depended upon, even in the more severe attacks of cramp colic and cholera morbus.

It is equally successful for summer diarrhoea and cholera infantum in children, and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is important when medicine is to be given to small children.

Every man of a family should keep this remedy in his home. Buy it now. It may save life.
